Monthly Commentary

Global stock markets rallied strongly in September. The rebound was driven by optimism over a potential shift in central bank policy and solid corporate earnings. The S&P 500 closed the month up by +3.5% (+13.7% YTD). The FTSE 100 closed the month up by +1.8% (+14.4% YTD) while Eurostoxx was up by +3.3% (+12.9% YTD). The MSCI EM index was up +7.0% (+25.2%YTD). Brent settled at $67.02/bbl recording a monthly loss of -1.6% (-10.2% YTD).

Regional markets posted mixed performance shaped by oil price volatility, regional policy developments and shifting investor sentiment ahead of potential global monetary easing. The standout performance came from Saudi Arabia led by optimism around regulatory reforms and renewed foreign investor interest with TASI closing the month up by +7.5% (-4.4% YTD). The S&P Pan Arab Composite Shariah Total Return Index closed the month up by +3.7% (+5.3% YTD). In the UAE, DFM was down for the month by -3.7% (+13.2% YTD) while ADX closed the month down by -0.8% (+6.3% YTD). Qatar closed month down by -1.5% (+4.6% YTD) while Kuwait was up by +3.1% (+19.6% YTD). The EGX 30 closed the month up by +4.3% in local currency and up by +31.0% YTD in USD terms.

In September, the Fund closed +3.75% (+0.34% YTD) compared to +2.81% for the S&P Pan Arab Composite Shariah Total Return Index. Saudi Arabia, which represents 65% of the benchmark rose over 7% driven by the foreign ownership limit comment. This has been a catalyst that we had flagged that could help change sentiment in the country, especially that the fundamentals remain quite solid with strong non-oil GDP growth resulting in solid earnings growth in the private sector (banks as well as corporates across sectors). The move in Saudi was coupled with a broad retraction across the other GCC indices, with the exception of Kuwait, as money rotated primarily out of the UAE into Saudi.

If Saudi were to increase the foreign ownership limit to 100%, we estimate over USD 10bn in passive flows to come from Emerging Market tracking funds. In addition, incremental capital from active investors into Saudi would be expected, to reduce the widening underweight position, as the country becomes a larger constituent in the EM index.

In September, we increased the portfolio exposure by 4.5% standing at 96%, adding in some UAE and Saudi names. In the UAE, we took advantage of secondary offerings in high quality businesses such as DU (a duopoly telecom player) and ADNOC L&S (the shipping arm of ADNOC). In Saudi, we increased exposure to Rajhi Bank (the largest weight in the index), rotating some from other positions.

Despite the rally in September in Saudi Arabia, we believe Saudi continues to present an attractive entry opportunity given the de-rating that happened across the board. This is especially the case in attractive sectors that have multi-year growth legs through the economic cycles. These sectors include; banking, insurance, pharmaceuticals, consumer staples, and technology.

The divergence in returns this year between Saudi and the broader Emerging Markets remains high, with Saudi down over 4% YTD while EM is up 25% YTD.

We continue to take advantage of this discrepancy as we position the portfolio to benefit from a recovery in the market.
